ISN'T THIS THE TRUTH?

Bill started his day early having set his alarm clock (MADE IN JAPAN) for 6.00 am. While his coffee pot (MADE IN CHINA) was perking, he shaved with his electric razor (MADE IN HONG KONG). He put on underwear (MADE IN THE PHILIPPINES), a shirt (MADE IN SRI LANKA), designer jeans (MADE IN KOREA).

For breakfast he had orange juice (MADE IN USA) and cereal (MADE IN CANADA). With his cereal he had dried apricots (MADE IN TURKEY). His coffee cup sat on the table cloth (MADE IN INDIA).

After cooking his breakfast in his electric frypan (MADE IN MALAYSIA), he sat down with his calculator (MADE IN THAILAND) to see how much he could spend today. After setting his watch (MADE IN TAIWAN) to the radio (MADE IN INDIA), he got into his car (MADE IN KOREA) and continued his search for a good paying job.

At the end of yet another discouraging and fruitless day, Bill decided to relax for a while. He put on his slippers (MADE IN BRAZIL) and poured himself a glass of wine (MADE IN FRANCE) and turned on the television (MADE IN INDONESIA), and wondered why he could not find a good paying job in Australia!

Sadly this is a very true scenario.

Three hundred thousand Austin Sevens were made between January 1923 and March 1939. The model was also made under licence in France as the "Rosengart", in Germany as the "Dixi" (BMW) and in the United States by the American Austin Co. of Butler, Pennsylvania. The side valve Austin Seven engine had a far longer run than the car itself, being used in the 1953 Rosengart, while the Reliant Engineering Co. Ltd. took over the manufacturing rights after Austin abandoned manufacture, and fitted their version of the Seven Engine to Reliant three wheelers until 1962.

AUSTINS OVER AUSTRALIA 2009 PERTH, WA

Perth Thursday April 9th to Monday April 13th. Newsletter #2, August 2007

Hello Fellow Austineers.

To the many enthusiasts who have responded with their Expression of Interest form, thank you.

Progress

We have been busy over the past months investigating options for venues, food, regalia etcetera, with the aim of all of us having an enjoyable and unforgettable time, catching up with old, and meeting new, friends.

Also, we intend to show, once again, that Austins are able to bring together people from all walks of life, and areas of the world, in a happy, relaxed atmosphere.

Accommodation

We have included, with this newsletter, a list of various types of accommodation, within a 15km radius of our proposed Headquarters, which, owing to the magnificent response we have received to our initial E of 1 form, has been moved slightly from our original location to Cannington, approximately 6km away, and is less than 15km East of Perth GPO.

Also included is a contact phone number and email address for the Perth Tourist Information Centre.

Pre and Post Easter activities

We are planning some suggested self-organised runs to various places of interest, different to our AOA runs for anyone who is in Perth before and or after AOA 2009.

One of these destinations will, of course, be to our renowned Kings Park, a 400 hectare area which attracts interest from many parts of the world for its size, location and variety of floral and other attractions.

Displays

Two display days are being organised for public and participant enjoyment.

One will be in Whiteman Park a large family park with trams and trains, plus a wildlife park within its boundary, approximately 15kms North of Perth GPO. The other will be hopefully (confirmation has at this time not been received) in a park in Fremantle city, approximately 15kms South West of Perth GPO.

Runs

Three runs (Saturday, Sunday and Monday) are planned, the first two to our displays, and the third to a property North of Perth (approx 35km), so our intent is not to have any run in excess of 100km return.

Communication

Electronic Mail to atholfarmer@westnet.com.au

Postal Mail to Athol Gorn 10 Royson Place Dianella WA 6059

Telephone calls to Athol Gorn (08) 9276 9235
Ken Devine (08) 9390 5310

Our next Newsletter (#3) will include an official Registration Form, together with an Options Form and, of course, further information. This will be for those people who have returned their Expression of Interest form.

OILS FOR A CLASSIC CAR

This is a copy of an article on page 15 of the CHACA Journal for Jan. 2006.

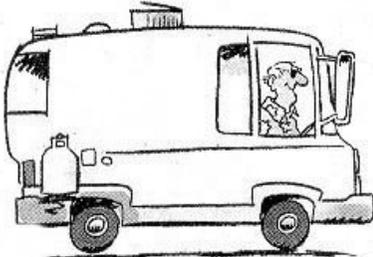

During my weekly fill at the local Caltex station I saw they had introduced 'Classic' motor oil for old car engines in good condition. As it was rated SG and not the current SK or SL and did not bear the words 'for older engines' or 'reduces oil consumption', I felt it was worth looking into it. A search of the Internet produced some interesting information, especially www.earthlink.net which referred to the November 1999 issue of Car and Driver magazine and a column by Patrick Bedard that is of great interest to all of us with "old cars we want to keep alive as long as possible".

It stated: The column is about engine oils. The technical information in the column came from one Ed Kollin, who was a research chemist at Exxon for many years and who now is Director of R&D for Lubrication Science in Jersey-- in other words, a guy who almost certainly knows what he is talking about. Here are some of the relevant facts:

1. Remember the synthetic oil add that showed an engine running after it had first been filled and then drained of oil? Apparently the oil contains a 'miracle molecule' that allows the engine to run for a while after the oil has been drained. The 'miracle molecule' does this by clinging to the metal surfaces very tightly, so tightly that it displaces the anti-wear additives in the oil which were put there to protect those metal surfaces. This means that for long-term use, that oil actually wears your engine faster than conventional oil.
2. Today's motor oil meets SF specs. (now SL) --- the oil our older car engines were designed to meet something like SA or SB, or at most SC specs. (This is the SAE specification on the little circular label on every good motor oil sold in the USA). Usually we are told that the newer oil is better, but is it true? And if true, better in what way?
3. Engine oil contains many additives, and the primary anti-wear and anti-oxidation agent is a chemical by the jaw-breaking name of zinc dialkyl Dithiophosphate (ZDDP for short). ZDDP, while good for engine wear and reducing corrosion rusting, it is bad for catalytic converters: as a result the modern SJ and later rated oils have about 25% less ZDDP than the old SA and SB oils.
4. New cars, to make the catalytic converters live, need lower levels of ZDDP. But this is a compromise, which results in more engine wear and corrosion. Our older pre-catalytic cars want a big dose of ZDDP to keep engine wear down.
5. New engine oil may be good for catalytic converters, but are not as good for your engine from the point of reducing corrosion as the old oil was.
6. Fuels today often have oxygenates - MTBE or Ethanol added to them in big cities in the USA. Traces of these oxygenates get into the engine oil, and apparently these chemicals are, to quote "tremendously corrosive", and they attack gaskets, seals and certain metals. No problem for automakers, they choose new polymers and alloys which are immune to these attacks. But what's to prevent the attacks and corrosion in older engines?
7. So what can we do? Well Ed Kollin says that for a seldom driven older car, such as show cars or in fact anything but a daily driver, "corrosion is a greater problem than wear, even the wear from starting an engine that has been sitting long enough to drain oil off most of its rubbing surfaces-- because only one little patch on that same rubbing surface is dooms day".

With this in mind, I thought I had better buy myself a new scooter.

I wanted something that was easy on gas and could zip me to the store and around town.

This one seems to meet my EVERY need.

Terry Johnson's 1952 A30 from WA

Hi everyone over there in Vic my name is Terry Johnson from WA and I joined your club a year ago after putting in the highest bid on a 1952 A30 that Shannon's had up for auction.

The reason I put the bid in was a case of I saw the photo of it and in a moment of nostalgliagistic madness decided that I wanted that car. My Mom owned when I was a young kid and to be honest I hadn't even given a thought of an A30 since. Until I saw the photo of that little car as lot 1 on that Shannon's broacher and, much to the surprise of all my family and friends, I decided that that car was mine.

After some time waiting for the auction and then waiting for ever to finally get the car here I just couldn't get the smile off my face at how cute it was. I had it delivered to work and it brought a smile to everyone's face as well. They all loved it and over the week I used to go to work and back to get used to the car I took everyone from work for a spin. I don't do things by half and when I say take it for a spin I mean see what it can do on the main highway near work 70mph might not seem a lot these day's but the fact that a little 1952 803cc car could do that and be steady on the road with 4 people on board impressed the guy's from work I can say.

And then came my first run with the WA branch of The Austin Motor Vehicle Club. and on the way to the meeting spot the gear stick came out. It was all fixed in time to join the run thanks to some good friends of mine from the P76 club who ran me around to get some new bolts and some of the Austin guy's who helped get it unjammed between 1-2 that was my first run on a club outing and the only one that I've had a problem with in a year of having the car.

Since then I've been on many good run's with our club over here and apart from the fact that she didn't really enjoy the 2 summer run's when it was over 40 she is a joy to drive and to see other people on the road smiling as they pass me is a good thing to see as well, especially the kids.

About me, well I've been involved with cars well before I had a license having a R/C car at about 14 and getting my 1'st car at 16yo in 1978. It was my dads Leyland P76 which stated me on my way to buying many more during the 80's as well as a Morris 1100 to help a friend out but a fun car in my hand's witch swapped for a XP Falcon which I also had a lot of fun with, but I still had and still do have my P's and still love them but I also enjoy getting out in the old A30. Come to think of it I have never had a bad thought or comment about any car or truck's (even the army one's) that I have driven just enjoy them all and have fun.

Hope to see some of you guy's at the AOA here.

Terry

Federation Picnic Weekend at Marong

Another great event, well over 600 vehicles, plus Motor Bikes, Tractors and Stationary Engines.

The weather was perfect they must have prayed a lot. I know we need the rain, but it was much better walking in the dust than mud.

We arranged to meet at Woodend with the Southern Peninsular Car Club. As we were waiting Fred Braunies drove up and no Annette in the car, at first we thought he had left her down the street, but no Fred explained that Annette was home in bed and not feeling the best. So we hope Annette is feeling much better. Probably a weekend without Fred would have been a good tonic. Sorry Fred only joking.

A30 Club members having lunch at Woodend

Sunday the Ladies went off to the Market in Bendigo on the free bus, we had the pleasure of the Ladies from the A40 Club. It was a very pleasant day. Once we got there we all went our separate ways and met up at 1.30pm for the trip back to Marong.

The weekend was a great success, only one hiccup was that Bob Laughton had a giddy turn and they had to call the Ambulance. But he is back to 99%. Many thanks to the Southern Peninsular Car Club for including us and inviting us also to the evening meals.

Fred Brauneis and Paul Iiko's Austin's and the Bacon's EH Holden

The Bacons trip to Sydney

We were very fortunate to have a few days away in Sydney recently with Graeme who at present is stationed there on HMAS Darwin.

The weather was excellent, to think the week before it was pelting down rain. Of course the day we went home is started again.

There were plenty of interesting places to visit, one was the Naval Museum at Garden Island, it has only been opened a few months and it was great. The only way we could get there was by the Ferry. The rest of Garden Island was off limits.

Being close to the Fast Rail we were able to hop on and off at any place. If not we just walked. I think I came home about 2 inches shorter we did that much walking. Well at least you see a lot more just walking around.

One Saturday Graeme took us for a drive to the Blue Mountains, what a pretty sight it was. Even with all the rain they have had it looked pretty dry in the country.

We did walk up over Anzac Bridge a few times. On one side they have a bronze statue of an Australian Digger and later on they are going to put a bronze statue of a New Zealand soldier.

As we were close by Darling Harbour (just walking distance) we caught the Mona Rail one day. But if I had to choose between Darling Harbour and the Docklands, Docklands would win hands down.

Well I have warbled on enough but just thought you might like to know what we have been up to.

Dot Bacon.

8. Ed goes on to say that while he can design a custom oil for this problem, the best off the shelf oil is heavy oil designed for Diesel trucks. Instead of SJ, look for combinations that begin with C (for compression ignition), CC-4 is the latest, preceded by CF-4, CF-2 and CF.A. Few oil blends meet both C and S requirements. While the oil part of these Diesel oils has the same lubricating qualities as passenger car oil, the most common heavy-duty viscosity is 15W040; more syrupy. But the Diesels get bigger doses of the additives---up to 50% more ZDDP (the anti-wear anti-corrosion additive) and 30 to 50% more detergent, dispersant and corrosion inhibitors.

9. The bad news: There's a very small chance, he says, that nitrogen compounds in the high dose of dispersant may cause some seals to leak. Moreover, if you've never used detergent oil before, you may wash chunks of sludge loose that could block the hydraulic filter.

10. The good news: if you have sticky rings, erratic compression and blue exhaust smoke, this high detergent oil will quickly free them up. For corrosion, Ed says, heavy-duty oil is the silver bullet solution. It's blended to neutralize the sulphuric acid produced by the high sulphur Diesel fuel. Note that sulphuric acid is also produced in car engines burning gasoline. However, the Diesel fuels contain more sulphur and consequently create more acid when burned.

That's basically all the really important information in the column. To me it contains at least three surprises---

- (1) Some synthetic oils wear your engine out faster than conventional oils.
- (ii) Older conventional oils protect your engine better than the newer ones.
- (iii) The best oil to use in the older cars is an oil designed for Diesel trucks.

It's probably getting a bit difficult to get "pure Diesel oil" in Australia. So when you buy your next lot of oil, it is worth not only looking at the SAE rating, but also looking to see it has an SG classification. Quite plainly oils ain't oils.

On the Road

with Bob Laughton

Spring has sprung, the grass has ris, Maring Showgrounds is where I is. What a good day, nice weather, plenty of cars, about 600, actually 599 and 3/4 as I spotted a 3 (legged) Morgan there. Vintage motorcycles, a few tractors and some vintage engines.

Three cars took my eye, one a Ford T Model, vintage about 1912-14, as it was a ute with a machine gun on the back, including tins of water to cool the gun, all done up in it's military clothes, it was a great display. I must mention the old 3 legged Morgan, not pristine, but great, and lastly a 1958 VW that had just competed in the Peugeot re run trial, it finished fourth outright, had a 1500 engine and was a great exhibit.

Next there was four A30's, a couple of A95's, an Austin Healey and a 1934 Austin 7. An Austin A30 belonging to Ian and Lyn Crannie was nicely done, a completel nut and bolt bare metal rebuild. Lyn had done the inside and it looked great. Ian had put in a 1098 engine, twin carbys, electric fuel pump, Morris Minor diff, complete respray, a lovely job Ian and Lyn, well done.

Uncle Henry is up to his tricks again, this time at Broadmeadows. But some good news, Ford has a Focus Diesel, only about ten years too late! and soon (three years) to be made at Broadmeadows. As all Damn ad's fail to mention at the moment, made in South Africa at this time. Plenty of Ford Focus ad's and Commonwealth ad's hitting the TV up here at the moment but some how no quarantine ad's this week? Funny that.

From Tatura to Marong the countryside looks nice, cereal crops, pea and canola around Colbinabbin look healthy, but are just hanging in there as they desperately want a drink. I noticed some canola crops already in full flower. I am not a religious man but I think we had all better start preying for rain.

Charizma is in the girls B B finals "B" grade playing The Aboriginal Girls Team on Thursday night and Locky "A" Grade Finals.
P/S our's was the only BMW at Marong.

Keep ya Diesel tanks full

enjoy ya Austins
